Bloodborne Pathogen Training

Employers are required to provide yearly Bloodborne Pathogens training for employees who might reasonably be exposed to bloodborne pathogens in the course of their employment. (see 29 CRF 1910:1030(g)(2)(vii).

Bloodborne Pathogens in the Workplace is designed to provide students with the essential knowledge necessary to help reduce or eliminate the occupational risk of bloodborne pathogens. The training program teaches the information every employee who has occupational exposure needs to know to avoid accidental exposure to potentially infectious materials and manage an accidental exposure if occurs

Course Audience

Individuals with a reasonable anticipation of contact with blood or other potentially infectious materials as a result of performing designated job duties. This can be taught as a standalone or alone with CPR, AED and First Aid. As well we can integrate your company's bloodborne pathogens policy into the training to complete the mandatory training, ensuring you have met the OSHA requirements.

Core Learning Objectives of this training program will provide students with the essential knowledge necessary to help reduce or eliminate the occupational risk of exposure to bloodborne pathogens. The goal is to help students understand the risk and develop behaviors that will help protect them when they are exposed to blood or other potentially infectious materials.

Programs are conducted in a user friendly environment, with a combination of video and instructor lead class. Students are given ample time to practice skills, as individuals and in groups. Instructors are there every step of the way to provide feedback and respond to students questions. At the end of the class, students who pass will be given a certification of completion, which is good for 1 year.
